The coin is considered common if used as a tender. The coin is considered uncapped if it has never been used and is in mint condition. There are coins that are very valuable even when they are in poor condition; You want to avoid cleaning these collectible coins. Cleared coins can easily be seen by reputable sellers and cost significantly less on the market. Coin dealers cannot easily replenish their stocks by having new coins minted; they must purchase more coins from fellow dealers and collectors. Bauer Stack Galleries Cost: $10.016,875Grade: PCGS SP-66Sold: January 2013; Stack's/Bowers, The Americana Auction, New York, New York Inexperienced artist and Workers of the United States Mint tried to make coins to power the new country's economy. The machines were raw, and workers performed most of the tasks manually. The karbed presses were crudely made and powered by strong men. The blanks were hand-submitted to the press, and a qualified pressman could center empty each time. Mint workers weighed each coin blank before it was struck to make sure it had the proper amount of silver. If it was overweight, some metal was scraped from the file. If the coin had not been inflicted strongly enough, these adjustment marks would have remained on the surface of the finished coin. If the workpiece was underweight, a small silver fork was placed on top of the coin before it was struck to bring it to standard weight. Since the composition of this coin is 90% silver and 10% copper, the alloy was created by hand and some impurities remained in the metal, it created different qualities of silver. The silver fork trapped in this coin was created from a different batch of silver than the form used to create it. Therefore, obviously, since there are two different shades of silver on the surface of the coin. Since the original 1758 silver dollar struck in 1794, it is the only known to exist that has a silver cork struck in it. The United States Mint, which was used to strike silver dollars, was originally designed to only strike coins for no more than half the dollar. Because this coin has a sharp detail and is almost in priscall state, some nomismatics believe it is the first silver dollar ever struck in the United States. Its low coinage, unique history and pristen state combine to make this the most valuable coin in the world! There are different ways in which you can invest your money. One of the best ways you can get an exceptional return on your money is by investing in silver dollars. The price of silver recently hit a 30-year high market forces. Because of its constant demand, the future for silver looks promising. The main attraction of investing in silver is due to its continued demand and market stability in volatile economies. Demand for silver is estimated at 900 million ounces, but the average global production today is only 480 million ounces. Demand for silver is almost twice as much as is produced. So when you consider that the supply of this precious metal is depleting, the law of supply and demand will predict to us that the price of silver is set to overzealous. Many banks and credit institutions lease their silver bars over the past 20 years to generate income. Leased silver dollars must be repaid as bullion or in hard currency. Banks often prefer to hold their reserves in the form of bullion and can demand payments from their borrowers in the form of actual bullion. Demand for silver is already almost twice as much as can be supplied. It is very likely that silver dollar collectors and other investors who hold large amounts of silver will be forced to sell their reserves at very substantial prices. Major silver investors often choose to invest by buying silver dollars. This is due to the amount of exposure that silver dollar owners hold in determining the price of the precious metal. In 1973, the Hunt brothers caused a big spike in international silver prices, acquiring millions of ounces of silver dollars and silver futures. The New York Mercantile Exchange, NYMEX and the Federal Reserve were actually forced to intervene. Even investment savvy Warren Buffett is rumored to own millions of ounces of silver he purchased in 1997. With a history of growth and demand for silver, and the history of other very wealthy investors, it would be a wise decision to keep part of your portfolio to invest in silver dollars. You never know when the cost of silver can spike. Investors are always advised to invest in silver by buying actual silver bars instead of paper silver. Paper silver takes the form of volume accounts, bank silver certificates and used accounts. You can trust such documents only if the certificate issuer is a legitimate and credit-worthy financial institution. In addition, stock market instability can threaten such institutions and banknotes and certificates may be lost when these institutions are bankrupt. True silver, on the other hand, is a firm indication of your investment. It is usually traded in the form of silver dollars or silver bars, each of the designated serial numbers. Dallas Aunt, TX Verified Reviewer Original review: October 25, 2020I made a purchase from Family Dollar #11572 and was due to change $.78 (seventy-eight cents). The cashier didn't give me my change (of coins), and didn't explain why until I told her she didn't give me my change back. The cashier stated, and I quote exactly: We do not give the change back. What madness this is! This is pure robbery; legal way, in my opinion. Rose of San Diego, CA Verified Reviewer Original review: September 19, 2020I'm a loyal customer for family dollar store chains. There are a few in San Diego and I live close to one at university. I have met with some great employees and managers with outstanding customer service, however, there is a specific employee/manager named Carol who time and time again I have seen her speak vulgarly and turns small incidents into outrageous scenes. I saw her chasing people out of the store and trying to fight them outside, I saw her physically getting peoples' property and I saw her break under pressure. I understand that there may be high levels of stress working in low-income communities. However, each client should be treated with dignity and respect. After yesterday's incident in which I had my child with me, I am now going to advocate for it to be removed from this store. I coo there almost every day, and whenever a carol works there is a thickness of doomsday atmosphere in store. I cannot tolerate someone who has no connection to other children's nations in the corporate store. My child should not have witnessed such a traumatic scene yesterday 9/18/2020 between 930-am and 945 am. She responded very disgustedly to the families of the 3 women, and there are many other incidents from which she has handled completely unprofessional. Read the full review of R Ormond Beach, FL Verified Reviewer Verified Buyer Original review: August 20, 2020I just bought from Family Dollar on Nova Road in Ormond Beach. I drive up, two customers walk without a mask, so I sit in the car to wait and see what happens. Nothing! We are in a hot spot, things are in the window. I see the cashier standing on the side of the door, smoking a cigarette, okay, taking her break... but she doesn't say anything to them. I literally don't have another store to go to because my dollar general is being reconstructed. Finally, a couple more people go with face masks, so I feel a little more comfortable. I get a few items that I need and go to the checkout line. Now keep in mind that there are signs all over the place saying face masks are required and please social distance, even at the front door. When I get to the cash desk, I see she's not wearing a mask. I had Covid still suffering from long-term symptoms and I know how serious it is. So I ask her, () Are employees obliged to wear a mask? It No, and if someone walks in without one I shouldn't say anything to them... That??? Then she says: I have condition so I can't wear one, WOW, and she was out smoking and looked in great shape. Now I have a medical condition other than Covid and I still wear a mask out of respect! I WILL NEVER SHOP FOR THE FAMILY DOLLAR AGAIN! Read Uraanda's full review from Waukegan, IL Verified Reviewer Verified Shopper Original review: August 12, 2020Duh this tip for Family Dollar in Waukegan in Park City IL. I went to this store to pick up some hair care products for my son. I planned to put braids in his hair. So I asked the cashier what foods she would recommend in order to braid her hair 4c. She directly told me that she didn't have slapped hair and that her hair quoted good hair. She told me she was biracial and didn't have that problem. I didn't ask her for her opinion on 4c natural hair only if she could recommend anything to my son. She embarrassed me and made me feel worthless. I always go into this family dollar for hair care products and have always had good service. It made me second guess, coming back. I wonder if the family dollar supports anti?* Cashiers should be this rude a pay customers and get away with it? S of Daytona Beach, FL Verified Reviewer Original Review: July 23, 2020Family Dollar LPGA-No Mask Complaint. Two days ago on 21.07.2020 I stopped at family dollar at the LPGA in Holly Hill, FL. When I drove up, I saw a customer come out with a cart and a mask on his face. So, I thought it would be safe to come in. I walk in the door and the cashier/staff greets me without a mask on my face. Two months ago, a month ago, I hadn't seen this mask on Family Dollar employees before. Today, nearly 6,000 people died in Florida, I thought there would be masks on staff. The female family dollar staff said welcome to her store, I took a small hand basket and took two steps in the store. The room was quite big and comfortable. I looked at the cash register area, and there was just a clear piece of plastic between me, and this one probably virus infected a Family Dollar employee. God told me to turn my a around and get out of there. That's what I did quickly. Why am I writing this complaint? The family dollar on the LPGA continued to have its staff without masks, last month, a month earlier, two weeks ago and now two days ago. So, I'm exploding the Family Dollar for being as stupid as Trump and infecting people with his stupid denial of illness and their indifferent attitudes toward others. Possible Family Dollar customers, you have been warned!!! Read Mia Old Fort's full review, NC Verified Reviewer Original review: July 19, 2020Old Fort NC Family Dollar Store is employee and store issues. Constantly boxes on boxes in the aisle ways make it difficult to move in the store. The manager is a very hateful man. It's a tough time wanting to shop because of your management choices. Especially in these times, should be able to cope with work and not! YELLS from clients. Danny of Angier, NC Reviewer Original review: July 12, 2020Suffual poor Services! The cashier does not wear a mask like most incoming customers!!! Stay away from this store if you want to stay healthy and keep social distance. People steal and don't care about anyone! Find another store to spend your money! Penny from Elkhart, IN Verified Reviewer Original review: June 14, 2020Prich announced that the store will close in three minutes. She went crazy when I tried to decide. Then she sighed. I could have handled it better and I swore, however she made a fist and punched her hand. The manager on duty came out to ring me. I told them both for good night. An employee at the door who allowed me to apologize for the lady's other behavior. However, I will not return. Elquhart Indiana on Franklin St. Kay from Houston, TX Verified Reviewer Original review: June 9, 2020 Employees are not ordered to replenish this store. The room was quite big and comfortable. 17511 Imperial Valley Houston. The family dollar should make full of this store.
